Ramblings and Roving's of Junkyd Dog & Fluffy

Octobers' the "Mothership" flight with "Starfighter" in toe and crew to Hershey and York Galaxies.

Junkyard dog along with some stray dogs enjoyed another trip to Hershey and York, PA. With pictures attached, I hope you will enjoy this as much as I did. Leaving on a clear morning trying to make the outer ring of the SC Boarder. We had a little burp in warp speed, which we plan to address upon docking that evening. With repairs made and crew in positive mode we had another clear day of travel and docked on the out skirts of Hershey Galaxy and planned for early attack Tuesday AM. Tensions were high, not knowing if docking space would be compromised or battle action was necessary. AACA patrol guided us in and welcomed us to Light Ring 97.

From there we all relaxed and enjoyed the smell of rust and new parts to be looked at and captured. For a few days we enjoyed other local AACA members who have taken the same journey and have stopped in to visit. Again, meeting and renewing old friends and neighbors was a pleasure. Frank & I were able to judge cars and we all collected some parts and good memories and laughs.

I have to tell you watching the closure of Hershey's flea market and car coral Sunday morning is a real treat. Moving of the hundreds of trash cans, port a potties, cars, campers and people over night and completely GONE that evening is a miracle in its self. There is nothing to show that just a day ago that over a thousand show cars and cars for sale and thousands of vendors were ever there. We undocked and moved to a new (Mile Post 103.3) docking station for a couple of days. With cloudy skies and some light rain on and off for two days we directed our patrols to the following: Used the, "Starfighter" to visit AACA Museum with the new Cammack Tucker Collection, one of the best presentations (a must see) at the museum and also featuring the Dodges automobiles. Next day we visited the AACA library for personal fact findings, Toy Train Museum, PA History Train (real trains) Museum. The next day with clear skies and some over cast, we patrolled the outer ring and found a junkyard to be proud of. An old friend from the early 80's, Dean Klinger and his "Wall of Cars" around his yard goes, back to the early story written by Cars & Parts on salvage yards. This has also become a town attraction and people have come miles around to just see it. Dean, gave each one of us a Colored Sign celebrating his 30th year starting in 1981 to remember our visit. A great garage item with some happy memories. Thanks Dean!

The next day we moved to York Galaxy at warp speed 3 and docked for the remainder of our trip. Starfighter patrol lead us to the Harley Davison Motor Company for a factory tour which was toooooo fast to take in everything we saw.(very good tour). The rest of the days we searched hundreds of train vendors and I found everything I was looking for, plus. As you can see, the last picture with the old conductor still traveling, our fun is about to end for this trip.
